

Evidence rules in debate require that quotations from authority be preserved exactly as they appeared in the original, meaning words are not to be added and internal ellipses are not allowed. This means the debater is not allowed to take words out of the middle of a quotation.

FURTHER READING

Emory University Libraries. "Internet Critical Evaluation." August 23, 2005. web.library.emory.edu/services/ressvcs/howguides/internet.html (accessed July 31, 2007).

Kingwood College Library. "MLA Style: Paper and Online." 2006. kclibrary.nhmccd.edu/mlastyle.htm (accessed July 31, 2007).

University of Michigan. "Political Science Resources: Think Tanks." August 17, 2005. www.lib.umich.edu/govdocs/psthink.html (accessed July 31, 2007).